

Stalis Awarded ISO/IEC 27001; 2013 Certification

Stalis Ltd are delighted to announce that we have been awarded ISO/IEC 27001; 2013 certification for our Information Security Management System.

Stalis Ltd, experts in the extraction, transformation & migration of healthcare data, have been awarded the International Organization for Standardization (ISO)/IEC 27001:2013 certification by SGS, the world's leading inspection, verification, testing and certification company who are recognized as the global benchmark for quality and integrity. Stalis have also gained updated certification for our Quality Management System, ISO 9001; 2015.

By meeting the extensive criteria for these standards, Stalis Ltd affirms its commitment to information security relating to our own corporate data as well as that of our clients.

The ISO/IEC 27001:2013 Standard is a process-based approach established and updated by ISO, the world's largest developer of international standards. The ISO/IEC 27001:2013 standard specifies the requirements for establishing, implementing, maintaining, and continually improving an information security management system (ISMS) within the organization. By implementing and following the necessary steps to comply with this standard, organizations can identify, control, and eliminate security risks, ultimately certifying the security practices adopted within their organization.

In turn, healthcare organisations can have absolute confidence that Stalis are following strict procedures and policies and that Stalis personnel are trained in methodology to reduce risk.

Andrew Meiner, Managing Director at Stalis said:

"In achieving the ISO/IEC 27001:2013 certification, Stalis has shown its commitment to ensuring the highest possible standards of Information Security, and has all the necessary controls in place to ensure that this strict standard is met by its technology, people and processes. This new award complements our existing Cyber Essentials and Cyber Essentials PLUS certification.

The ISO 9001:2015 certification, demonstrates that Stalis works continually to achieve the quality standards that its clients expect and provides added reassurance that we can be trusted with your healthcare data project"
